A. M. Dunham, the Fiddler, Wins Loving Cup

ACCLAIMED THE CHAMPION OLD-TIME FIDDLER IN MAINE AT THE PAGEANT OF PROGRESS

A. M. Dunham of Norway and his 71st year lifted a silver loving cup with his fiddle at Lewiston, Tuesday evening. He not only won the trophy but was acclaimed the champion old time fiddler in Maine.

The contest was held in the armory as a part of the Pageant of Progress in the city this week. Seven thousand and more people heard Mollie reel off the old time jigs and hornpipes on a violin known to be a century old, with the chance more than even the age of the instrument goes back to the days of the Revolution. Mollie, a mouse enlaid one of the "fiddlers" took a bed inside and reared her young. The tenants failed to ignore the tone for the music filled every nook and cranny in the armory.

The winner was decided by the audience and there was nothing uncertain about Mollie's reception in a group of ten or twelve younger contestants who carried the audience by storm.

Musical Comedy, "The Runaways"

The expression "Here is your tie" will live long after the cast of "The Runaways" has been disbanded.

A live up-to-date musical comedy, staged under the auspices of the ladies' auxiliary of the American Legion, was put across with pep and go, at Norway Opera House, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. This is a Philbrook Broadway production directed by B. O. Shields, and brimming full of witty dialogue, catchy songs, good dancing, pantomime, brilliant costumes and novelty.

The story for the frame work centers about the Mile High Sanatorium in the Adirondacks. Prof. Otis, who runs the place, is a rather eccentric fellow. His treatment is plenty of exercise on starvation rations.

Among the regulars are Malachi Grump and his rather eccentric wife, the prim Mrs. Grump. An addition to the colony is Cyrus T. Pettijohn, president of a soap company by that name, and incidentally an old maid. Two daughters, Peggy and Sylvia, are enjoying the luxuries of an Inn close by. Peggy has fallen in love with Dicky Dickson, a versatile and "topsy" soap salesman, a veritable company. Dicky is in bad with his father and the old gentleman cramps the wheels in his love career. The forward soap salesman is extremely familiar in his attitude toward the prospective father-in-law, and he has the expression "Here is your tie" by his progressive methods.

The other daughter, Sylvia, in her love making with Hal, has not to countenance with her sister, for their lives have fallen in pleasant places.

Anyhow, everything comes out right, despite an elopement frustrated by the tin star cop, Sheriff Koppin, and other obstacles placed at the most inopportune times. The pair are eventually married, and the happy ending is the happy ending.

Two soloists not in the cast were Dorothy Anderson in an impromptu song, showing the grounds adjoining the sanatorium and fun. The first act was largely to present the characters and develop the plot, while the second worked the story along rapidly, showing a masquerade party in which the cast made a fine appearance in brilliant costumes and catchy song hits.

Picking things would be hard work and unfair because everyone entered their spirit of entertainment. Naturally, comedy characters made hits both evenings and were serious parts were not behind in winning the audience. One of the best light musical productions ever given here. Less than two weeks was required for the finished product.

The first 3000 cubic feet per quarter is 35 cents per 100 cubic feet and is graduated down according to amount of water used per quarter to 12¢ per 100 ft. The minimum charge per quarter is $5.00; follows: $5 meter $4.50; 3/4 meter $5.00; 1/2 meter $6.00; graduated up to 4 inches at $6 meter per three months.

This is doubling up the minimum of the old rate, which was found to be altogether too small.

We understand that all who have meters on domestic services can have them changed, if they so desire. With this increased minimum, there can be no saving effected by using meters.

It contains more real comedy, new music, original ideas and up-to-the-minute novelties than any similar organization. It is clean and refined, one of the jolliest, breeziest and most up-to-date musical performances on the road, being full of laughable situations, charming musical numbers and excellent specialties.

The plot is a miscellaneous assortment of "amusing nothing," strung together in a pleasant, joyful manner, constructed for mirth-provoking purposes only and entirely different from anything heretofore seen in this particular field of endeavor. It is charged with spirit and keeps the audience in good humor during the entire performance. The olio is composed of several of the highest-class colored vaudeville acts before the public. Each act and every one have appeared at different times, on the "Big Time" and they are the kind that are seldom seen outside the large centers of population, sending the most fastidious seeker after amusement, home, feeling satisfied they have received full value for their money.

All Out Of Sorts?

So Was This Norway Woman Who Tells Her Experience

All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This Norway case is one of many:

Mrs. Ray Bennett, 31 Deering St., says: "I had to be on my feet so long about my housework, that it put a strain on my back and kidneys. I had such backaches that I didn't have any strength to do my work. My back was also lame and stiff. My kidneys were weak and out of order, too. I used two boxes of Doan's Pills from Ashtons' Drug Store and was cured."

More Optimism Needed

It is generally agreed that the economic condition of the farmers is not what it ought to be, and that it is necessary that it should be improved for the general welfare of the country. The farm is the original source of most of our wealth. The influence of a depressed agriculture is certain to be injuriously felt by every element in industry.

Excessive farm pessimism, however, is harmful to agricultural interests. The constantly proclaimed theory that farming has become an unprofitable industry, a "losing game," has served to depress farm values and restrict farm credit. It is not constantly proclaimed that banking, merchandising or publishing a newspaper has ceased to be profitable, the number of bankruptcies in these lines of activity would be greatly increased.

The political friends of the farmer, who have been painting pictures of general bankruptcy in the farming industry have done agriculture immense economic harm. Such agitation is not needed in the downward trend of farm land values.

Farm conditions are much better than they were five years ago, and they are steadily growing better. It is admitted that the farmer has been the chief sufferer from war time inflation and peace time deflation. He has been hard hit by a rising level of wages and other costs in industry, without a commensurate increase in farm prices. There is a serious determination on the part of the government and on the part of the farmer themselves to effect relief from this abnormal condition. Optimism will help some. And there is no question about the future of farming in a country possessing such enormous capacity for consumption of farm products.

OUR OPPORTUNITY

We believe in boosting. We are of the opinion that boosting is merely the expression of the loyalty of the citizens of the community. But boosting, too often mere boasting, can accomplish little without intelligent direction.

In addition to boosters, the town needs thinkers—men who are ready to do a little brain work to help the growth and development of the community along scientific lines.

As a first step in getting industry into a town, says a man who has spent his life dealing in industrial property, "I suggest an industrial survey of the community. This survey should be broad—it should first accumulate all the facts about industry already operating in the community—then it should study into all the factors that make the community an ideal location for one kind of manufacturing and bad for another. And above all, no attempt should be made to secure the location of a factory that is doomed by unfavorable location to failure. For it is better to have no new industry than industry that is bound to fail.

Such a survey was once made in a community where there were a number of machine shops. And the job was far from complete before results were attained. It was found that many machine shops were buying drop forgings from outside the city. A study showed that there was a sufficient local market to make a drop forging plant successful right in the town itself.

So a careful study of all conditions was made, and before many months had passed the town could boast a new industry in the form of a drop forging plant.

This, of course, did not include all the good effects of the survey. After facts on market conditions were accumulated, data concerning transportation and credit facilities gathered, and a complete knowledge of the local labor supply gained, the business men who were out to build up the town had a fine accumulation of information to present prospective manufacturers.

This method in seeking to get outside capital interested in the community proved to be immensely more profitable and beneficial than mere idle talk about boosting the town.

No plan for building up the community can get very far without the united backing of the people and backing can come only from real, intelligent boosters.

A WIDE AWAKE SPIRIT

Recently a man from a city was boosting his city and community up to the very stars. Another man in the group said, "Neighbor, what is the secret of the wide-awake spirit of your city and community?"

The stranger took off his hat, ran his fingers slowly through his hair, looked down at the sidewalk, seemingly in search of words to express himself, and this was his answer, "Oh, we are still a from community."

When pressed for an interpretation of his statement, replied, "I mean none of us has been here long enough to get over asking each other where he came from. And he added, 'When this community gets so old and settled that no one need ask the other where the other is from as we already will know that everybody has been born and raised here, our community will be dead. A community needs new blood, just as does a herd of livestock or a nation.'

"In many ways we lament the loss of our best young people and shudder at the thought of having to get used to new people when they move into the neighborhood, but the best thing they bring in is an outside point of view and a challenge to everything we do. Habits and customs which will not stand the challenge ought to be abandoned."

To attend it in numbers from this place. The sound of the hunter's guns were heard on many sides early Monday, Oct. 5. We wonder if some of the big bear family of North Pond, have wandered near for big game, or whether "his target practice" on a red squirrel or chipmunk. All the woods and hill sides are gorgeous with their brightly colored foliage and any one, not fearing of being shot, must enjoy the outdoor life, whether they carry a gun or not.

The "Busy Bees" Club will be held Oct. 17th.

They are loading apples by the carload to go to some canning factory.

WHY ADVERTISED GOODS SELL. There are many reasons why advertised goods sell best. In speaking of nationally advertised goods, for example, travelers are able to purchase the same brand of a cracker in the East as in the West, in the North as in the South and all of them are equally good and crisp.

And the same principles apply to all merchandise and goods made or sold locally. The buyer knows that a local advertiser is ready to stand behind his product because his advertising is a proof of his confidence.

The advertiser is known and has pledged himself to stand back of his merchandise. He has given his printed word to the general public, and must keep it. It is a mark of good faith and is recognized by buyers the world over as such.

Almost without exception, all of the improvements in packages or other containers have been the direct outcome of advertising.

WELCHVILLE FAIR

The Community Fair, under the auspices of Oxford Grange, met grief in a snow storm, Saturday, and the show was postponed until Monday.

As is the usual thing with events carried over Sunday, the attendance fell short of the crowds in past years and exhibits, together with the midway, suffered in a loss of numbers.

The weather was not ideal, but at noon several hundred had gathered about the Grange Hall where a few fairs who had weathered the gales, hoping to collect a few dimes, lined up for business.

Bob York was on hand with the chair plane and whiffed a few through space. The Oxford Grange conducted a booth where hot dogs, soft drinks and other refreshments were sold. Mrs. Wiggins and Mrs. Barrows, both of South Paris, were established in a booth and catered with homemade fudge, a variety of candy and bead chains. Trinkets, novelties and balloons attracted youngsters to an auto truck where these indispensable things were handed out.

Baby Thelma, advertised as "the child with a radio mind" created a sensation in a tent along the highway near the hall. She repeated stunts performed at other fairs in this section and was a big attraction. Having an engagement for a matinee elsewhere, the show closed early after a few performances.

A thronging-bal-at-the-kitties game operated to small business. The young people didn't appear to be in the mood for that sport.

Hall Exhibits

Postponing the fair reduced the exhibits considerably. While the number of articles was far less than in former years the quality was good and perhaps better than at the average community fairs.

A considerable amount of fancy and crocheted pieces were on exhibition and rugs were conspicuous. Among the exhibitors were Mrs. Ada R. Gagne, Grace Pratt Reynolds, Doris Ramsdell, Elizabeth Hannaford, Charles E. Morey, Mrs. Lillian M. King, Hazel May Marshall, Mrs. Roy Hall, Maud Hunting, Rose Deering, Belle Leary, Alice King Wilson, Mrs. Ida Noyes, Mrs. L. W. Jackson, Charlotte Hunting and Mrs. Geo. Waitt.

Several pieces of basketry by Kate Starbird made a display showing skill in the craft.

A number of antiques comprised a platter over 100 years old, exhibited by Mrs. Carrie B. Smith; neckties worn at a ball at Portland, Me., given in honor of the Prince of Wales (King George), and the property of Grace Pratt Reynolds; and a beautiful decorated ivory fan, and a table cover of velvet pieces over 80 years old, shown by Mrs. Elizabeth Hannaford.

There were several old fashioned plates. A variety of rugs were conspicuous on the walls. The braided kind were shown by Mrs. A. H. Spears and Mrs. Clem Poland. Drawn rugs in several designs were exhibited by Mrs. L. Howe, Mrs. A. H. Spears and Mrs. Ada R. Gagne.

An apron and fancy work table with articles furnished by the Grange and offered for sale; was in charge of Mrs. Chaplin, Mrs. T. Tyler and Mrs. Hunting. Mrs. Elizabeth Hannaford was one of the busy ones, pinning souvenir ribbons on the men folks and collecting dimes for the grange treasury.

Vegetables and farm produce made a good showing along one side and one end of the hall. Riverside Farm, J. V. Hunting, proprietor, had a large display that included cabbages, spinach, celery, lettuce, potatoes, carrots, turnips, corn, 12 varieties of beans and other vegetables. A dish containing potato balls was a curiosity to many. Several jars of preserves and a sample quart of milk were among other articles in this display.

Elmwood Farm, C. K. Denning, proprietor, was represented with many vegetables, apples, pears and cranberries. Mrs. Denning exhibited a plate of turkey eggs from her department on the farm.

R. M. Tyner, of Crestholm Farm, showed a large number of apples and a collection of beets, corn, beans, squashes, and grapes in pumpkin baskets. There were samples of milk, cream and butter from his herd of guernseys, also canned goods and eggs.

A nice display of preserves, jellies and canned goods offered by Mrs. Charlotte Hunting was attractive and tempting. Three pounds of golden dairy butter from the Moore Farm looked good. Mrs. Gonyea made the butter from the purest cream, no artificial coloring being used.

Among the smaller exhibitors were Ralph J. Warren, with potatoes; F. L. Edwards and George L. Stephens, apples.

Live Stock

This department was in the barn, in the rear of the hall. R. M. Tyner showed a Guernsey bull, 12 months old, a bull calf, 5 months, and Guernsey heifer 8 months.

A. L. Chaplin exhibited the purchased Cora T., 10 months old, and Adalade, 5 months old. He also had grade calves 6 months old.

Laurence and Louise Tyner cheerfully explained the good points of a few ewes named Brown and Black. The children were positive that the tags were wrong and should have listed the animal as black.

When a bystander explained it was a "black sheep" in the family, the juvenile owners failed to see the point, and stuck to it that black was all right.

Pulling Horses

Most of the excitement was on the side road, where a good sized crowd gathered for the pulling, in charge of A. L. Chaplin, Gardiner Edwards and W. E. Gammon.

The four contestants agreed on the load to be two pounds of stone for one pound of horse flesh, then went after it, each pulling five minutes.

A. L. Chaplin's sturdy team, with Eugene Millett handling the ribbons, had the first tug. The pair weighed 2820 lbs. and made a good start. At the end of the first minute, part of the harness broke, causing a delay for new parts.

After three strong pulls, the spreader gave way. "Line" decided to call it off in the face of a bit of hard luck. The team pulled 13 feet, which was not bad for a pair never before hitched to a rig.

This is a clean cut team and good looking. Bert Wood of Norway, with his pair weighing 2750 lbs. saw-sawed into a distance of 64 feet, 6 inches.

Oscar Trundy of Mechanic Falls put on his prize winning record, 2630, and in steady pull cleared 83 ft., 7 in. This team won the contest.

A. B. Grover of Welchville closed the show with his pair, weighing 2600 and made 83 ft.

Pulling conditions were not favorable for long distance and each team was put to a most severe test.

Music and Dancing

The Black and White Orchestra, composed of players in Tyner's Orchestra and True's Orchestra entertained in the hall during the afternoon.

In the evening they played there for a dance that attracted a good sized crowd.
